STATE NEWS.

A fellow calling himself C. R. Graham, has been arrested by chief of Police Beck, of Milwaukee, for attempting a $9,000 forgey on the First National Bank of that city. He is now chewing the cud of re-fection in jail. It is supposed he is one of a gang which is scattered over the country for the purpose of perpetrating such crimes.—The Lake Cross Democrat says indications are that Lake Pepin will be open in a few days.—The work of improving the harbor of Sheboygan is now progressing.—A German named John God-schall, living at Whitewater, committed suicide on Saturday afternoon last, by hanging.—He leaves a wife and four chilren.—Win. Chapin, of Jefferson, was drowned in Rock river on the night of the 11th. So says the Danner.—The Grant County Herald has raised its subscription to $2 per annum. Sensible.

A Gift to the New York Sanitary Fair.

Mr. Wm. H. Aspinwall has presented to the Sanitary Fair a black horse of unsurpassed beauty and of great value. In one of Mr. Willis's letters to the Home

Journal, published four or five years ago, the following mention of this animal appears:—

"The conversation turning accidentally on the build of war steeds, as shown in the pictures by the old masters, Mr. Aspinwall (who was kindly showing to Mr.

Gray and myself the admirable collection of works of art which he has so liberally opened to the public,) asked if we would like to see a horse that was somewhat of the ideal type; and led the way by an adjoining staircase to his stable, where—wonderful as were the treasures of the gallery we had just left—the groom unblinking a marvel of beauty which I coveted more than all the masterpieces on the walls. It was a coal-black stallion, which Mr. A. had chanced to see while traveling in Spain, and which, appreciating at once with his artistic and well-disciplined eye for the beautiful he bought at great cost and sent home. The voyage was rough, and the impatient creature suffered somewhat from the long imprisonment in the hold of a sailing vessel; but he is now recovered, and with the exception of a mark or two on his injuries on ship-board, stands unchallenged in the natural spirit and proportions. Mr. Aspinwall's son, riding imprudently, and it is, in fact, the finest possible model of a horse, built exclusively for the Religious Notice.—Rev. Mr. Clark, of REY MR. JORALL of the United Lutharan Reformed Church of Chicago will preach in German in the Court Room at

A full attendance is requested.

COAL.—On Monday the 18th inst., I

Saturday, April 16, 1864.

Accident.—We understand that Mrs.

Alexander Graham was quite seriously injured by a fall last evening, while on her way to the exhibition at Lappin's Hall.

She received a severe cut over the eye, which may prove injurious to the sight.

Dr. Treat was in attendance.

CHICK.—The Kenosha Telegraph says

Editor fifty cents a pound for butter stopped his paper because the price was advanced from $1.50 to $2.00 per year! I don't believe the most rigid inspection with a microscope would develop so mean a man in Rock county.

A DISCREPANCY OF CREDITS.—There is quite a difference between the credits claimed by the State for the number of troops furnished, and those allowed by the Protestant Marshal General. If our authorities are correct we have only 1,000 men to supply to fill our quota; if, on the other hand, the Protestant Marshal General is right, we have about 4,000 to furnish.

THE RAVEL'S TO-NIGHT.—This unrivalled pantomime and ballet troupe appear at Lappin's Hall this evening. The mere announcement that the Ravel Troupe was to perform in any locality has been sufficient to draw a crowded house in nearly every instance. The wonderful and the laughable are so admirably combined in this entertainment as to keep an audience convulsed with merriment or gaping with surprise.

Owing to some misunderstanding as to the time they were to commence their engagement, in Milwaukee, the Ravel's are about to appear comparatively unannounced,

A Western Fair for Refugees and Freedmen.

In the Sanitary Fair of the Mississippi Valley, which is to open on the 17th of May, at St. Louis, is a Freedmen's and Union Refugees' Department, under the charge of a committee of gentlemen and ladies, of whom the ladies constitute the greatest number. This, we believe, is the first example of a fair held with a special view to these objects.

The committee have issued a circular setting forth the destitution of the two classes for which aid is solicited. The Western Sanitary Commission in the prosecution of its noble work has been brought into contact with the multitudes of freed people, and Mr. Yeaman, the President of the Commission, has employed himself in looking into their condition and aiding the officers of the Government in improving the methods adopted for employing, protecting and instructing them. Much has been done for them by exposing, to the words of the Commission, "the oppression almost worse than slavery to which they were subjected by unmerciful contractors and army sharks," and "there is reason," we are told, "to hope that a just system of work and wages will be established in its place."

Some affecting accounts of the destitution of these poor people are given in a letter from Mr. H. N. Mann to the Rev. Dr. Elliot, of the Western Sanitary Commission, but the following is of another description, though not less interesting:

"To bring in a family from the distance of one hundred and fifty miles, the first requisite of course is a team. One noble fellow of the pure African type had succeeded in getting together his wagon and mules, and came within our lines with his two children. Then, finding his wife was left behind, he wished to attempt to return and attempt to bring her in. But, to return thus would involve the certain loss of the team, he was forbidden to do it, and told that if he preferred to go back with the children he could do so. The man hesitated a while between the loss of this golden opportunity for freedom, and the certainty of severe punishment for his attempt to fly, and the loss of a wife left in bondage, and then, with a faithfulness to duty worthy a Regulus, returned to his chains. My informant says: 'I shall never forget the expression of that man's face as the love of liberty was grappling in his soul in the agony of despair with a love that had a stronger hold upon his heart. But he surrendered the liberty he had enjoyed for a moment—went back with his children to the lashes of his master, and to the love of his wife!'

Meantime multitudes of white refugees from the slave States, driven from their homes because they would not take part in the rebellion, have crowded into St. Louis. That city, more than any other of the West, has been the refuge of those who have thus, by flight, saved their lives or avoided the necessity of bearing arms against their country. Here great numbers of them have been sheltered, clothed, fed, and, as the armies of the North have opened the Southern country to them, have been sent back to their friends. There are thousands of this class yet to be cared for, and their number is increasing.

All goods and packages of whatever kind should be distinctly marked with the name of the donor and place from which sent, and directed, James E. Yeaman, St. Louis, Mo. (For M. V. S. Fair, & U. R. Dep't.). And Bill of lading or other proper notice should at the same time be sent by mail to Major Alfred Mackay, corresponding secretary, No. 10 Lindell Hotel, Committee Rooms, No. 10 Lindell Hotel. Donations of money are especially solicited, and should be sent by mail or express to Samuel Copp, Jr. Treasurer.

Donations intended for the colored people should be marked "For Freedmen," others, "For Refugees."

Hospital for the Insane—New Superintendent.

At a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the State Hospital for the Insane, held at the Capitol last evening, Dr. A. H. VAN NOSTRAND of Jefferson county was elected Superintendent of the Institution under their charge, in place of Dr. J. P. Clement, resigned. In the selection of Superintendent, the Board have taken much pains to procure a person in every way competent for the position. A committee has visited the East and made thorough search for a person who combined good business qualifications, with skill in his profession, and experience in the management of Insane Asylums; and a person possessing to the fullest degree, requisites desired, has not been found. It is believed however, that in the selection made, the Board has very nearly secured all that was desirable in that respect.

Dr. Van Nostrand has been a resident of Wisconsin for over twenty years, and is well known to a large portion of the citizens of the State. As a physician, he has few superiors; as a business man, he is accomplished and successful. In character he is upright and honorable. In address, he is commanding, affable and popular. In short, he possesses, in an eminent degree, all the qualifications that could be desirable for the place, and his extensive practical experience in the treatment of insane persons. In this, his experience has been limited but highly successful, so far as it has gone. With his thorough reading on the subject, backed up with the energy of character and soundness of judgment the Doctor is known to possess, we have no fear but he will soon attain an eminent position in his new calling. Under all the circumstances, we look upon the action of the Board, in its selection of Superintendent, with great favor.—Madison Journal.

LIFE'S PHASES.—"A Christian's life is laid in the loom of time to a pattern which he does not see, but God does; and his heart is a shuttle. On one side of the beam is the arrow, and on the other side is joy; and the shuttle struck alternately by each, flies back and forth, carrying the thread, which is white or black, as the pattern needs; and in the end, when God shall lift up the finished garment, and all its changing hues shall glance out, it will then appear that the deep and dark colors were as needful to beauty as the bright and high colors."

—Stephen Paxson, a veteran missionary connected with the American Sunday School Union, has organized over one thousand Sabbath Schools and gathered together over sixty thousand scholars.

Past the Rocks.

The "Universalist Quarterly," published in Boston, Mass., and edited with marked ability by Rev. Thomas B. Thayer. The issue for April contains an excellent article entitled "Past the Rocks." The writer is Rev. E. W. Reynolds, who has always been in the habit of using "great plainness of speech," and who has given the Slave Power some of the hardest blows it ever received. We give a passage or two from the article in question:

"Early victory over the Rebellion, and speedy conquest of the south, must have restored the Union with slavery still in the ascendant. But when God maddened the oligarchy to precipitate the war, He meant that the triumph of battle should sound the knell of slavery. He meant that the Federal Hand, reluctantly grasping the sword, to maintain its heritage, should never sheathe it more till the Slave Power had received a mortal thrust. Had the nation been wise enough to have apprehended God's purpose then, and obedient enough to have complied with his will, the war might have wrought its design in a year. It is the perversity of the nation that has protracted the scourge. The long train of disasters that mark the first epoch of the War, is the enormous price of our conversion to justice. Deeper and yet deeper must run the plowshare of judgment—all parties being engulfed, and all institutions overturned that stand in its way—till that loathsome curse, entrenched so deep in American society, is torn away from our polity, and cast into hades."

The New York anti-draft riot, that gave the rebels so much encouragement at the time, is thus alluded to:

"The attempt to execute the draft, became the signal of insurrection. And what a bloody parade was then witnessed! A rabble, such as only a great city can produce out of its overflowing crime and hidden vices; a pack of lunatic man wolves, with every beastly instinct rampant and vocal; a brotherhood of thieves, a confederacy of convicts, the Sodom's gash-shops and brothels; Such monsters as the lava buried at Pompeii, such scavengers of blood as encompassed the guillotine, brethren of Barabbas, armed with bludgeons, and with votes, and swarmed upon by the accomplished standard-bearer of 'Democracy,' they demolish the homes of the chief Samaritans, drag the sick from their beds and hang them at lamp-posts, fire the asylum of the orphan, assault the house of the widow and murder the fugitives as they fly. The very democracy of Bedlam and of Tivoli!"

But the massacre and pillage of the thirteenth of July ranks with the great crimes which God so severely overruled for the future good of society. It has taught our people some truths which they could hardly have learned by any other means. It has taught them how unscrupulous a demagogue can be in the pursuit of his object. It has taught them how a party can bear the noblest title, and yet lend itself to the foulest deeds. It has taught them that, to array one class of our community against another, and especially to awaken the prejudices of the ignorant, and stimulate the passions of the depraved, for political effect, is to encourage violence and crime, and unsettle the very pillars of society."

"The New York Riot has tended, perhaps, more than any other single agency, to disgust our people with a party politics, that is base enough to feed its sinking vitality with the blood of its afflicted country. Henceforth, if the late popular verdicts given at the polls signify anything, no party will live in the free States that arrays itself against the dictates of a genuine patriotism. In time of peace and of national safety, partisanship is lawful, and political emulation is salutary; but in time of war, when the honor and life of the nation tremble in the balance, the men who weaken the Government become allies of the enemy, and merit the severest reprobation that public opinion can visit upon them. And we thank God, therefore, that those who have tried to roll the rock of partyism into the regenerating stream of events, have become crushed beneath it, while the Republic keeps her course, unimpeded and unharmed."

The old ship Republic was threatened by the rocks of compromise; idolatry of the Constitution—or rather "an infamous interpretation of it;" the temporizing Border State policy, and the rock of partyism. We trust the good old ship is indeed past these rocks forever.

GENERAL PARAGRAPHS.

—The whole cost of governing Boston is four and a quarter million dollars a year.

—The oil-wells of Pennsylvania have produced 554,000 barrels of petroleum since February, 1862.

—A military hospital is to be built immediately in Detroit.

—In Ohio there are 14,233 common schools, 167 colored schools, and over 21,000 teachers, of whom 12,580 are women.

—Boston and its dependencies, in ordinary seasons, consume over forty thousand pounds of butter a week.

—In the city of Nashville there is a floating population of ten thousand persons, besides the soldiers.

—Governor Bramlette says he was very much pleased with his reception by the President during his recent visit to Washington.

—The rebel deserters and refugees who fled their way to Wheeling, Va., are finding places as farm laborers in Eastern Maryland. Great inducements are offered them, in consequence of the scarcity of labor.

—A young man who was carried fifteen or twenty times around a shaft in Taylor's soap-stone works at Perkinsville, Vt., the other day, had every article of his clothing torn from him, but escaped without a scratch upon his person.

—The monthly pay-rolls of the factories in Manchester, N. H., amount to about $125,000, or a million and a half dollars a year. Previous to the war the sums paid were hardly two-thirds of this amount. The business of the town has doubled in six years.

—No city can be much more orderly and quiet than Little Rock, says a correspondent, and there is a kindly feeling between the citizens, and indeed throughout the State where they have come in contact. General Steele having declared there shall be no excesses committed by irresponsible parties on inoffensive people, simply because the unfortunate happen to live in a district where rebels are prowling around.

JUDICIAL ELECTION.—The result of the Election for Judge in this county, as far as heard from, gives Mr. Washburn 188 majority. The returns of towns not heard from will not change the above figures much; we may probably safely calculate on about 200 majority for Washburn. We shall give the full returns from each town as soon as they are brought in.—Des Moines Advertiser.

The Case Well Stated.

The New York correspondent of the London Times gives the following account of the manner in which the rebel cause is written up in England. He says:

The orators and the writers of letters to the Times who have taken charge of Southern affairs, dislike extremely the citation of 'authorities.' There is a freedom in their writing, a largeness and comprehensiveness about their view which would be completely lost if they had to descend to such paltry details as proofs. There is always a noble simplicity about the accounts of the condition of the South which are manufactured in London and Liverpool. The men are all rushing into the army with frantic eagerness, and the women all hallowing them on. There is no conscription. The thing falsely so called by the northern slanderers is simply the distribution of notices to men fit for service of where they are to rendezvous. There is no impressment of supplies; the trouble on this point, about which so much is said by lying Yankees, arises out of the eagerness of the farmers to give them for nothing, met by the stern determination of the Confederate officials to pay for them at the highest rate.

The habeas corpus has never been suspended, though of course all persons suspected of being hostile to the Confederacy are arrested wherever found. The Yankees camp along the rivers under cover of their gunboats, and are unable to penetrate two miles in any direction away from the water. Some negroes join them, but not until they have been refused permission to serve in the Confederate ranks, and they invariably do of their own accord after entering the Federal lines. The Confederate currency has, it is true, been greatly inflated, but such is the confidence of the people, that the inflation produces no effect on its value. Goods of all kinds sell at nearly the same rate as ever.

All Southern officers are pious and gentlemanly; all Northern officers are abandoned infidels, with no ties of home or family, and no creed, and no conscience. Their time is mostly passed in plundering, ravishing, and running away from the Southern to the shelter of their gunboats. The territory so far conquered by the North is about the size of Belgium, and is the very worst portion of the Southern States—a barren, malarious region to which the Confederates never attached any value, and which they are in fact glad to be rid of.

"The reports in the Northern papers of steamers running regularly down the Mississippi are pure inventions. No commercial steamer has been able to go down except one, and she arrived at the wharf in a sinking condition, completely riddled by the bullets of guerrillas. The Northern States are all sick of the war, and it is the opinion of a distinguished Southern statesman that before the close of another year, at least seventy independent Republics will arise out of the ruins of the ruined United States, which will devote themselves to the congenial work of mutual butchery and devastation—an awful example of the consequences of unchecked Democracy, small farms, and the entire absence of a landed gentry."

That is exactly the state of the case, as everybody knows; and the recent elections in New Hampshire and Connecticut are proofs—if any were needed—that Mr. Spence and his Southern friends in Liverpool and elsewhere are well informed.

Death of Wm. D. Ticknor, the Publisher.

From the Philadelphia Press, April 11th.

With unaffected sorrow we record the death of Mr. Ticknor, of the well-known firm of Ticknor & Fields, publishers, Boston. It occurred, yesterday morning, at the Continental Hotel, in this city. Mr. Ticknor arrived here on Tuesday, accompanying his friend, Nathaniel Hawthorne, Esq., the author, whose health demanded change of scene and air. On Thursday, both gentlemen called upon the writers of this obituary, who heard with pleasure that Mr. Hawthorne's health already had improved, brief as his absence from his New England home had been, and noticed that Mr. Ticknor looked remarkably well—apparently enjoying rude health. That afternoon both gentlemen took a drive to Point Breeze Park, in company with a friend, and there Mr. Ticknor first complained of not feeling quite well, saying that he must have taken cold. On Friday morning he sent for a physician, and did not leave his room that day. On Saturday, his doctor considered him so much worse, although not dangerously ill, that he thought it right to telegraph for Mr. Ticknor's family. That evening he became so much worse that a consulting physician was called in. He was pronounced to be dangerously ill, seemed fully aware of his condition, and repeatedly expressed his sorrow at not being able to take leave of his dear wife and children. Mr. Hawthorne, who never left him from the time he was taken ill, held his hand at the moment he breathed his last.

Mr. Ticknor was 53 years old, and had been upwards of a quarter of a century in the publishing business. The firm was originally "W. D. Ticknor & Co.," but was changed several years ago to "Ticknor & Fields," when Mr. James T. Fields, who had been brought up in the establishment, became a partner. It is not too much to say that no house in America stands higher in the estimation of the public and of the book trade. Ticknor & Fields have not only largely repaid the best writing of the best British authors (paying them liberally for the permission), but also published very extensively for the leading American writers, almost exclusively the poets. Their books were got up with remarkable elegance and accuracy, one of their latest and most successful productions being Ticknor's Life of Prescott, one of the most beautiful works ever printed. Mr. Ticknor was married, and was a cousin of Mr. George Ticknor, a distinguished author of that book. Between the two families, years ago, Ticknor & Fields purchased the Atlantic Monthly, which has now a circulation of over forty thousand copies.

We believe that the complaint of which Mr. Ticknor died was congestion of the lungs. He has left a wife and a family. One son is in the army. The oldest son, Howard Ticknor, who has been in the establishment since he graduated at Harvard, will probably be the future representative of the family in the firm of Ticknor & Fields.

A ROLLING STONE GATHERS NO MOSS—Well, what of that? Who wants to be a mossy old stone, away in some damp corner of a pasture, where sunshine and fresh air never come, for the cows to rub themselves against, and for snails and bugs to crawl over, and for toads to squat under among poisonous weeds?

It is far better to be a smooth and polished stone, rolling along the braving stream of human life, wearing off the rough corners and bringing out the firm crystalline structure of the granite or the delicate veins of the agate chalcidony.

It is this perpetual chafing and rubbing that sorts a grit man is made of, and what use we may find in the sand-stone and soap-stone ground down to sand and mud, the firm rock is selected for the towering fortresses, and the diamond is cut and polished for the monarch's crown.

The preparation of a medicine to alleviate, cure, and protect these complaints, must be expected, and one and its ingredients, loosening the mucus of the throat, and imparting tone to the entire system. No discovery in medical science over matched this class of diseases like Dr. Wynkoop's Iceland Pectoral. It is used with the most astonishing results in all cases of Bronchitis, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Diphtheria or Pertussis Croup, Asthma, Croup, Coughs, Cold, Nervous Irritability, &c.

COUGHS AND COLDS:

The sudden changes of our climate are sources of PULMONARY, BRONCHIAL, AND ASTHMATIC AFFECTIONS. Experience having proved that simple remedies often act speedily when taken in the early stages of the disease, recourse should at once be had to "Brown's Bronchial Trochee," or Lozenges, let the Cold, Cough, or Irritation of the Throat be ever so slight, as by this precaution a more serious attack may be effectually ward off. Pearly SWEETENERS and FLAVORS will find them effectual for clearing and strengthening the voice. Soldiers should have them, as they can be carried in the pocket and taken on occasion requires. ap1dw1

A Western Fair for Refugees and Freedmen.

In the Sanitary Fair of the Mississippi Valley, which is to open on the 17th of May, at St. Louis, is a Freedmen's and Union Refugees' Department, under the charge of a committee of gentlemen and ladies, of whom the ladies constitute the greatest number. This, we believe, is the first example of a fair held with a special view to those objects.

The committee have issued a circular setting forth the destination of the two classes for which aid is solicited. The Western Sanitary Commission in the prosecution of its noble work has been brought into contact with the multitudes of freed people, and Mr. Yeatman, the President of the Commission, has employed himself in looking into their condition and aiding the officers of the Government in improving the methods adopted for employing, protecting and instructing them. Much has been done for them by exposing, to use the words of the Commission, "the oppression almost worse than slavery to which they were subjected by unmerciful contractors and army sharks," and "there is reason," we are told, "to hope that a just system of work and wages will be established in its place."

Some affecting accounts of the destitution of these poor people are given in a letter from Mr. H. N. Mann to the Rev. Dr. Eliot, of the Western Sanitary Commission, but the following is of another description, though not less interesting:

"To bring in a family from the distance of one hundred and fifty miles, the first requisite of course is a team. One noble fellow of the pure African type had succeeded in getting together his wagon and mules, and came within our lines with his two children. Then, finding his wife was left behind, he wished to attempt to return and attempt to bring her. But, as to return this would involve the loss of the team, he was forbidden to do it, and told that if he preferred to go back with the children he could do so. The man hesitated a while between the loss of the good opportunity for freedom, the certainty of severe punishment for his attempt to fly, and the loss of a wife left in bondage, and then, with a faithfulness to duty worthy a Regulus, returned to his chains. My informant says: 'I shall never forget the expression of that man's face as the love of liberty was grasping at his soul in the agony of despair with a love that had a stronger hold upon his heart. But he surrendered the liberty he had enjoyed for a moment—went back with his children to the lash of his master, and to the love of his wife.'"

Meantime multitudes of white refugees from the slave States, driven from their homes because they would not take part in the rebellion, have crowded into St. Louis. That city, more than any other of the West, has been the refuge of those who have thus, by flight, saved their lives or avoided the necessity of bearing arms against their country. Here great numbers of them have been sheltered, clothed, fed, and, as the armies of the North have opened the Southern country to them, have been sent back to their friends. There are thousands of this class yet to be cared for, and their number is increasing.

The following are the directions given to those who desire to assist in this benevolent work:

All goods and packages of whatever kind should be distinctly marked with the name of the donor and place from which sent, and directed, James E. Yeatman, St. Louis, Mo. (For Mr. V. S. Fair, P. O. R. Dep't.) And Bill of lading or other proper notice should at the same time be sent by mail to Major Alfred Mackay, corresponding secretary, &c., St. Louis, Mo., Committee Rooms, No. 10, Lindell Hotel.

Donations of money are especially solicited, and should be sent by mail or express to Samuel Cope, Jr., Treasurer. Donations intended for the colored people should be marked "For Freedmen," others, "For Refugees."

Hospital for the Insane—New Superintendent.

At a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the State Hospital for the Insane, held at the Capitol last evening, Dr. A. H. VAN NOSTRAND of Jefferson county was elected Superintendent of the Institution under their charge, in place of Dr. J. P. Clement, resigned. In the selection of Superintendent, the Board have taken much pains to procure a person in every way competent for the position. A committee have visited the East and made thorough search for a person who combined good business qualifications, with skill in his profession, and experience in the management of Insane Asylums; and a person possessing to the fullest degree, qualities desired, has not been found. It is believed however that in the selection made, the Board has very nearly secured all that was desirable in that respect.

Dr. Van Nostrand has been a resident of Wisconsin for over twenty years, and is well known to a large portion of the citizens of the State. As a physician, he has few superiors; as a business man, he is accomplished and successful. In character he is upright and honorable. In address, he is commanding, affable and popular. In short, he possesses, in an eminent degree, all the qualifications that could be desirable for the place, excepting extensive practical experience in the treatment of insane persons. In this, his experience has been limited, but highly successful, so far as it has gone. With his thorough reading of the subject, backed up with the energy of character and soundness of judgment the Doctor is known to possess, we have no fear but he will soon attain an eminent position in his new calling. Under all the circumstances, we look upon the action of the Board, in its selection of Superintendent, with great favor.—Madison Journal.

Life's Phases.—"A Christian's life is laid in the loom of time to a pattern which he does not see, but God does; and his heart is a shuttle. On one side of the loom is sorrow, and on the other side is joy; and the shuttle, struck alternately by each, flies back and forth, carrying the thread, which is white or black, as the pattern reads; and in the end, when God shall lift up the finished garment, and all its changing hues shall glance out, it will then appear that the deep and dark colors were as needful to beauty as the bright and high colors."

—Stephen Paxson, a veteran missionary connected with the American Sunday School Union, has organized over one thousand Sabbath Schools and gathered together over sixty thousand scholars.

Past the Rocks.

The "Universalist Quarterly," published in Boston, Mass., and edited with marked ability by Rev. Thomas B. Thayer. The issue for April contains an excellent article entitled "Past the Rocks." The writer is Rev. E. W. Reynolds, who has always been in the habit of using "great plainness of speech," and who has given the Slave Power some of the hardest pen thrusts it ever received. We give a passage or two from the article in question:

"Early victory over the Rebellion, and speedy conquest of the south, must have restored the Union with slavery still in the ascendancy. But when God maddened the obduracy to precipitate the war, He meant that the triumph of battle should sound the knell of slavery. He meant that the Federal Land, reluctantly grasping the sword, to maintain its heritage, should never sheathe it more till the Slave Power had received a mortal thrust. Had the nation been wise enough to have apprehended God's purpose then, and obdient enough to have complied with his will, the war might have wrought its design in a year. It is the pervasiveness of the long train of disasters that mark the first epoch of the War, the enormous price of our conversion to justice. Deeper and yet deeper must tarry the plowshare of judgment—all parties being engulfed, and all institutions overturned that stand in its way—till that loathsome curse, entrenched so deep in American society, is torn away from our polity, and cast into Hades."

The New York anti-draft riot, that gave the rebels so much encouragement at the time, is thus alluded to:

"The attempt to execute the draft, became the signal of insurrection. And what a bloody parade the world then witnessed! A rabble, such as only a great city can condense out of its overflowing crimes and hidden vices; a pack of human wolves, with every beastly instinct rampant and vocal; a brotherhood of thieves, a confederacy of convicts, the Sodomites, the lars buried at Pompeii, such searings of blood as encompassed the palladium, brethren of Barabbas, armed with bludgeons, and with votes, and fanned upon by the accomplished standard-bearer of 'Democracy,' they demolished the homes of the chief Samaritans, drag the sick from their beds and hang them at lamp-posts, fire the asylum of the orphan, assault the house of the widow and murder the fugitives as they fly. The very democracy of Bedlam and of Tartarus!"

"But the massacre and pillage of the thirteenth of July ranks with other great crimes which God mercifully overlooks for the future good of society. It has taught our people some truths which they could hardly have learned by any other means. It has taught them how unscrupulous a man can be in the pursuit of his object. It has taught them how a party can bear the noblest title, and yet lead itself to the foulest deeds. It has taught them that, to array one class of our community against another, and especially to awaken the prejudices of the ignorant, and stimulate the passions of the depraved, for political effect, is to encourage violence and crime, and unsettle the very pillars of society."

"The New York Riot has tended, perhaps, more than any other single agency, to disgust our people with a party system, that is based enough to feed its sinking vitality with the blood of its afflicted country. Henceforth, if the lato popular verdicts given at the polls signify anything, no party will live in the free States that arrays itself against the dictates of a generous patriotism. In time of peace and of national safety, partisanship is lawful, and political emulation is salutary; but, in time of war, when the honor and life of the nation tremble in the balance, the men who weaken the Government become allies of the enemy, and merit the severest reprobation that public opinion can visit upon them. And we thank God, therefore, that those who have tried to roll the rock of partyism into the regenerating stream of events, have been crushed beneath it, while the Republic keeps her course, unimpeded and unharmed."

The old ship Republic was threatened by the rocks of compromise; idolatry of the Constitution—or rather "an infamous interpretation of it;" the temporizing border State policy; and the rock of partyism. We trust the good old ship is indeed past these rocks forever.

GENERAL PARAGRAPHS.

—The whole cost of governing Boston is four and a quarter million dollars a year.

—The oil-wells of Pennsylvania have produced 554,000 barrels of petroleum since February, 1862.

—A military hospital is to be built immediately in Detroit.

—In Ohio there are 14,233 common schools, 167, colored schools, and over 21,000 teachers, of whom 12,580 are women.

—Boston and its dependencies, in ordinary seasons, consume over forty thousand pounds of butter a week.

—In the city of Nashville there is a floating population of ten thousand persons, besides the soldiers.

—Governor Bramlette says he was very much pleased with his reception by the President during his recent visit to Washington.

—The rebel deserters and refugees who fled their way to Wheeling, Va., are accepting places as farm laborers in Eastern Maryland. Great inducements are offered them in consequence of the scarcity of labor.

—A young man who was carried fifteen miles around a shaft in Taylor's soapstone works at Parkersville, Va., the other day, had every article of his clothing torn from him, but escaped without a scratch upon his person.

—The monthly pay-rolls of the factories in Manchester, N. H., amount to about $125,000, or a million and a half dollars a year. Previous to the war the sum paid were hardly two-thirds of this amount. The business of the town has doubled in six years.

—No city can be much more orderly and quiet than Little Rock, says a correspondent, and there is a kindly feeling between the citizens; and indeed throughout the State where they have come in contact, General Steele having declared there shall be no excesses committed by irresponsible parties on inoffensive people, simply because the unfortunate happen to live in a district where rebels are prowling around.

JUDICIAL ELECTION.—The result of the Election for Judge in this county, as far as heard from, gives Mr. Washburn 138 majority. The returns of towns not heard from will not change the above figures much; we may probably safely calculate on about 200 majority for Washburn. We shall give the full returns from each town as soon as they are brought in.—Door Co. Advocate.

The Case Well Stated.

The New York correspondent of the London Times gives the following account of the manner in which the rebel cause is written up in England. He says:

"The orators and the writers of letters to the Times who have taken charge of southern affairs, dislike extremely the citation of 'authorities.' There is a freedom in their writing, a largeness and comprehensiveness about their view which would be completely lost if they had to descend to such paltry details as proofs. There is always a noble simplicity about the accounts of the condition of the South which are furnished in London and Liverpool. The men are all rushing into the army with frantic eagerness, and the women all hallowing them on. There is no conscription. The thing falsely so called by the northern slanderers is simply the distribution of notices to men fit for service of where they are to rendezvous. There is no impressment of supplies; the trouble on this point, about which so much is said by lying Yankees, arises out of the eagerness of the farmers to give them for nothing, met by the stern determination of the Confederate officials to pay for them at the highest rate."

The habeas corpus has never been suspended, though of course all persons suspected of being hostile to the Confederacy are arrested wherever found. The Yankees camp along the rivers under cover of their gunboats, and are unable to penetrate two miles in any direction away from the water. Some negroes join them, but not until they have been refused permission to serve in the Confederate ranks, and they invariably die of starvation soon after entering the Federal lines. The Confederate currency has, it is true, been greatly inflated, but such is the confidence of the people, that the inflation produces no effect on its value. Goods of all kinds sell at nearly the same rate as over.

"All Southern officers are pious and gentlemanly; all Northern officers are branded as infidels, with no ties of home or family, and no creed, and no conscience. Their time is mostly passed in plundering, ravishing, and running away from the Southerners to the shelter of their gunboats. The territory so far conquered by the North is about the size of Belgium, and is the very worst portion of the Southern States—a barren, marauding region to which the Confederates never attached any value, and which they are in fact glad to be rid of."

That is exactly the state of the case, as everybody knows; and the recent elections in New Hampshire and Connecticut are proofs—if any were needed—that Mr. Spence and his Southern friends in Liverpool and elsewhere are well informed.

Death of Wm. B. Ticknor, the Publisher.

From the Philadelphia Press, April 11th.

With unfeigned sorrow we record the death of Mr. Ticknor, of the well-known firm of Ticknor & Fields, publishers, Boston. It occurred, yesterday morning, at the Continental Hotel, in this city. Mr. Ticknor arrived here on Tuesday, accompanying his friend, Nathaniel Hawthorne, Esq., the author, whose health commanded change of scene and air. On Thursday, he and his friend called upon the writer, and he had the pleasure of hearing Mr. Hawthorne's health already had improved, brief as his absence from his New England home had been, and noticed that Mr. Ticknor looked remarkably well—apparently enjoying rude health. That afternoon both gentlemen took a drive to Point Breze Park, in company with a friend, and there Mr. Ticknor first complained of not feeling quite well, saying that he must have taken cold. On Friday morning he sent for a physician, and did not leave his room that day. On Saturday, his doctor considered him so much worse, though not dangerously ill, that he thought it right to telegraph for Mr. Ticknor's family. That evening he became so much worse that a consulting physician was called in. He was pronounced to be dangerously ill, seemed fully aware of his condition, and repeatedly expressed his sorrow at not being able to take leave of his dear wife and children. At midnight, when he was left alone in the room, he was taken ill, held his hand at the moment he breathed his last.

Mr. Ticknor was 53 years old, and had been upwards of a quarter of a century in the publishing business. The firm was originally W. B. Ticknor & Fields, but was changed several years ago, to "Ticknor & Fields," when Mr. James T. Fields, who had been brought up in the establishment, became a partner. It is not too much to say that no house in America stands higher in the estimation of the public and of the book trade; Ticknor & Fields have not only largely reprinted the best writing of the best British authors (paying them liberally for the permission), but also published very extensively for the leading American writers, almost exclusively the poets. Their books were got up with remarkable elegance and accuracy, one of their latest and most successful productions being Ticknor's Life of Prescott, one of the most beautiful works ever printed. Mr. Ticknor, we may say, was a cousin of Mr. George Ticknor, the distinguished author of that book. Born in 1811, and four years ago, Ticknor & Fields purchased the Atlantic Monthly, which has now a circulation of over forty thousand copies.

We believe that the complaint of which Mr. Ticknor died was congestion of the lungs. He had lost a wife and a family. One son is in the army. The oldest son, Howard Ticknor, who has been in the establishment since he graduated at Harvard, will probably be the future representative of the family in the firm of Ticknor & Fields.

A ROLLING STONE GATHERS NO MOSS.—Well, what of that? Who wants to be a mossy old stone, away in some damp corner of a pasture, where sunshine and fresh air never come, for the crows to rub themselves against, and for snails and bugs to crawl over, and for toads to squat under among poisonous weeds? It is far better to be a smooth and polished stone, rolling along the braving stream of human life, wearing off the rough corners and bringing out the firm crystalline structure of the granite or the delicate veins of the agate chalcidony.

It is this perpetual chafing and rubbing in the whirling current that shows what sort of grit man is made of, and what use he is good for. The sandstone and soapstone are ground down to sand and mud, the firm rock is selected for the towering fortress, and the diamond is cut and polished for the monarch's crown.

Heimstreet's Inimitable Coloring not only restores hair to its natural color by an easy process, but gives the hair a luxuriant beauty, promotes its growth, prevents its falling off, eradicates dandruff, and imparts health and pleasantness to the head. It has stood the test of time, being the original hair coloring, and is constantly increasing in favor. Used by both gentlemen and ladies. It is sold by all respectable dealers, or can be procured by direct of the commercial agents, D. S. BARNES & Co., 202 Broadway, New York. Two sizes, 50 cents and $1. J. Johnson

WYNKOOP'S ICELAND PECTORAL.

Diseases of the Throat, Chest, and Pulmonary Organs are ever prevalent, insidious and dangerous. No discovery in medical science ever mettered this class of diseases like Dr. Wynkoop's Iceland Pectoral. It is used with the most astonishing results in all cases of Bronchitis, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Diphtheria or Parotid Bore Throat, Asthma, Croup, Coughs, Colds, Nervous Irritability, &c.

POTTER certifies "that I have used Dr. Wynkoop's Pectoral for several years, myself and in my family, for various pulmonary complaints, and have recommended it to many others, and have never seen its equal." Rev. J. J. POTTER, Brooklyn, N. Y. Hundreds and thousands of important testimonials could be produced, showing its remarkable cures and that it never fails. It is composed of pure Iceland Moss, Balm of Gilead, Peruvian Balsam, Mucilage, Camphor, Bardock, and other invaluable expectorant and tonic ingredients. It is harmless, prompt and lasting. Invalids and sufferers cannot afford to neglect a trial. Every family should have it. It is remarkable for Croup, Whooping Cough, and all pulmonary diseases, and directions accompany each bottle. COUGHS AND COLDS.
The sudden change of our climate is a source of PULMONARY, BRONCHIAL AND ASTHMATIC AFFECTIONS. Experience having proved that simple remedies often act speedily when taken in the early stages of the disease, recourse should at once be had to "Brown's Bronchial Trochiscs," or Lozenges, let the Cough, or Irritation of the Throat be ever so slight, as by this preparation the inflamed surface may be effectually washed, and the secretory action of the mucous membrane checked, and the system generally put in a healthy condition for clearing and strengthening the throat. RELIGIOUS MISCELLANY.

"GOING ALONE."

With curls in the sunny blue sky, With light in the merry blue eye, With laughter so clearly ringing, A laugh of delight and surprise;
All friendly assistance declining, And trusting no strength but his own—
The past fears and trials forgotten, The baby is "going alone."

What woe! what misadventure This day of rejoicing and pride!
How often the help that he needed Has curiously gone from his side!
He has fallen while reaching for sunbeams, Which, just as he grasped them, have flown,
And the tears of vexation have followed,
But now he is "going alone."

And all through his life he will study
This lesson again and again, He will earnestly lean upon shadows, He will fall and weep over the pain,
The hand whose help was his own,
Will coldly withdraw from his side,
The sunnier eyes will be closed,
And he will be walking alone.

And yet not alone, for our Father, The Fathering Father, will guide Through all the dark ages of earth-life, "O'er the river" the "good" tide, Oh! here is a helper undiminished, A strength we can perfectly trust, When, all human aid unavailing,
"The dust shall return unto dust."

God, and the soul's aspiration.—As the heart panteth after the water brook, so thirsteth the soul for the knowledge of God. The heart crieth out for the living God. Divine truth is wisely adjusted to the soul's wants and is designed to satisfy its aspirations. The soul will inquire after God, and ask—"What is his purpose concerning me? Has He an interest in my welfare? Does He love me and mine?
Is He my Father and changeless Benefactor?" To solve the great problems of life, with all its varied changes, its hope and, and giant oppressions; and death in its varied forms and solemn realities; we must recognize God as a Father, having some wise and benevolent plan to execute.

In the mighty whirl of life, in the great epochs of revolutions, even in the busy and strife of business, there are times when man pauses and thinks of God. They cannot shut all thoughts of him from their souls. They think of immortality, of that blessed country towards which we are all drifting. The aspirations of the soul cannot be satisfied by human speculations, and philosophies and creeds. For with these, man forms crude notions of the Divinity, and gropes his way through this wilderness world, blinded to the beauties of spiritual life, and the glories of immortality. Man needs the soul-inspiring revolutions of Christianity, where he learns of the loving God, the kind and compassionate Father. This knowledge is essential to sustain us in our sorrows, and comfort us in our afflictions, to breathe resignation into our souls when our loved ones lie down in death, that we may feel assured that they have passed on to a better life, and that we shall join them in the spirit world.
These truths are beautifully adapted to the soul's wants and satisfy its longings. To the true believer, they become the power of God unto salvation.

The Good Things Forgotten.—An exchange truthfully says:—"You may insert a thousand excellent things in a newspaper and never a word of approbation from the readers; but just let a paragraph slip in, even by accident, of one or two lines not suited to their taste, and you will be sure to hear from it."

This short, truthful paragraph is very suggestive, and has quite as much application to the pulpit as to the paper. We have known men get angry at some expression in the pulpit, or at some sentiment which the minister uttered in the course of an excellent sermon, and violently slam the pew door, and abandon the house of God, and take their families from church, and the Sabbath school, withdraw all support from the minister, and try to discourage others from rendering aid, and do their best to weaken the church and society. And all this because the minister uttered some thoughts distasteful to these men! They acknowledge him to be a good man, an able preacher, an efficient pastor, and Christian teacher; they have listened to many of his sermons with delight; but because he uttered some sentiment that they do not accept, they deprive themselves and their families of the blessings of God's house, and religious influences, and interrupt the pleasant relations that have existed between themselves and their ministers. They forget the thousand good things the minister has said, and talk only of what was distasteful to them.

So it is with a religious paper. A thousand excellent things may be published, and the patron will not utter a word of approbation, but let a sentence or paragraph appear, not suited to his taste, and how he will boil over with rage, and order his paper discontinued, and deprive his family of the means of mental and moral improvement. The good, instructive articles which have been published, are all forgotten; only what has appeared that is distasteful to him, does he remember. And so he deprives himself and his family of a good religious journal, because a few thoughts have been uttered, not in harmony with his own. This, clearly, is a mistaken policy, and is the result of excited passion, instead of calm reflection.

Jesus.—A SURETY OF A BETTER TESTA-MENT.—(Heb. 7: 22.)—Jesus is become the surety of the better covenant, since in His person security and certainty are given to men that a better covenant than that under Moses is made and sanctioned by God. For Christ, the Son of God, became man to publish this covenant on earth, has sealed it with His suffering and death, and by His resurrection from the dead was declared with power to be sent by God as the Founder of such a covenant.—Extract from Lantern.

—Ho who casts off private prayer under any pretence whatever, casts off the authority and dominion of God; and this may be as much as a man's life and soul are worth.

—As a body without a soul, much wood without fire, or a bullet in a gun without powder, so are words in prayer without the spirit of prayer.

RELIGIOUS MISCELLANY.

"GOING ALONE."

With curls in the sunny blue eyes, With light so clearly outlining,
A look of earnestness and grace, And trusting in strength but to own—
The path of duty and devotion, The lady is "going alone."

And all through his life he will study
This lesson of duty and devotion, How often the help that he needs
He will find in the path of duty, Which, just as he grasped them,
And the tears of devotion have fallen,
But now he is "going alone."

God, and the soul's aspiration.—As the heart yearns after the water brook, so the soul for the knowledge of God. The heart cries out for the living God. Divine truth is wisely adjusted to the soul's wants and is designed to satisfy its aspirations. The soul will inquire after God, and ask—"What is his purpose concerning me? Has He an interest in my welfare? Does He love me and mine?
Is He my Father and changeless Benefactor?" To solve the great problems of life with all its varied changes, its joys and sorrows, its triumphs and its defeats, we must recognize God as a Father, having more wisdom and benevolent plan to care us out.

In the mighty whirl of life, in the great
epochs of revolutions, even in the busy
and strife of business, there are times when we pause and think of God. They come to shut all thoughts of him from their minds. They think of immortality, of that blessed country towards which we are all drifting. The aspirations of the soul cannot be satisfied by human speculations, and philosophies and creeds; for with these, man forms crude notions of the Divinity, and gropes his way through this wilderness world, blindfolded to the beauties of spiritual life, and the glories of immortality. Man needs the soul-inspiring revolutions of Christianity, where he learns of the loving God, the kind and essential Father. This knowledge is comfort and sustain in our sorrows, and comfort us in our afflictions, to breathe resignation into our souls when we may feel assured that we have passed on to a better life, and that we shall rejoice in them in spirit world. These truths are beautifully supported to the soul's wants and satisfy its longings. To the true believer, they become
the power of God unto salvation.

The Good Things FORTH.—An exchange thoroughly says—"An exchange of excellent things in a newspaper and a word of approbation
from the readers; but just let a paragraph slip in, then by accident, of one or two lines not suited to their taste, and you will be sure to hear from it."

This short, truthful paragraph is very suggestive, and has quite as much application to the pulpit as to the paper. We have known men get angry at some expression in the pulpit, or at some sentiment which the minister uttered in the course of an excellent sermon, and violently slam the door, and abandon the house of God, and take their families from church, and the Sabbath school, and try to discourage others from rendering aid, and
do their best to weaken the church and society. And all this because the minister uttered some thoughtless words to these men! They acknowledge him to be a good man, an able preacher, an efficient pastor, and Christian teachers with delight; but because he uttered some sentiment that they do not approve, they deprive themselves and their families of the blessings of God's
house, and religious influences, and interfere between themselves and their minister. They forget the thousand good things the minister has said, and talk only of what was distasteful to them.

So it is with a religious paper. A thousand excellent things may be published,
and the patron will not utter a word of approbation, but let a sentence or paragraph
appear, not suited to his taste, and how he
will boil over with rage, and order his paper discontinued, and deprive his family
of the means of mental and moral improvement. The good, instructive articles, which have been published, are all forgotten; only what has appeared that is distasteful to him, does he remember. And so he deprives himself and his family of a good religious journal, because a few thoughtless words have been uttered, is a mistaken policy, and is the result of excited passion, instead of calm reflection.

JESUS.—A STREET OF A BETTER TESTA-MENT.—(Heb. 7: 22.) Jesus is become the surety of the better covenant, since in His person security and certainty are given
to men that a better covenant than that under Moses is made and sanctioned by
God. For Christ, the Son of God, became man to publish his suffering and death, and sealed it with his resurrection from the dead, was declared with power to be sent by God as the Founder of such a covenant.—Extract from Lumen.

—Ho who casts off private prayer under
any pretence whatever, casts off the authority and dominion of God; and this may be as much as a man's life and soul
are worth.

—As a body without a soul, much wood without fire, or a bullet in a gun without
powder, so are words in prayer without
the spirit of prayer.
